ABSTRACT

The bibliography covers books, pamphlets and periodical articles written in English since 1965, on all aspects of the librarianship of non-book materials. Some earlier publications are included either because of their importance or because there is a lack of more recent literature on the subject. Entries are grouped under broad headings in the main part of the bibliography, with a detailed subject index for more specific search. An author index is included. The broad headings of the bibliography are: multi-media collections and services for school, academic, public, state, national, industrial and medical libraries; single media collections and services--films, maps, newspaper clippings, photographs, slides, filmstrips and sound recordings; cataloging and indexing standards; bibliographic control; interlibrary cooperation; personnel; audiovisual aids; copyright; educational technology; and bibliographies and directories. FOREWORD

The bibliography covers books, pamphlets and periodical articles written in English since 1965, on all aspects of the librarianship of non-book materials. Some earlier publications are included either because of their importance or because their is a lack of more recent literature on the subject.

Many of the entries contained in the first edition have been pruned, and I have attempted to confine this second edition to references directly concerned with the librarianship of non-book materials, omitting the peripheral subjects. In spite of this pruning, there are more than double the number of references, giving some indication of the increasing amount of literature being published in this expanding field of librarianship.

Entries are grouped under broad headings in the main part of the bibliography, with a detailed subject index for more specific search. An author index is also included. I have deliberately not included a title index as many of the entries bear similar titles of a subject heading nature, which can be more easily traced through a subject approach or through their author.

I am grateful to my colleagues in the ASLIB Audio Visual Group for their helpful suggestions in the compiling of this bibliography, and to the staff of the ASLIB library for their assistance.
